

TEUTONIC BEATS CARONIA IN NIP AND TUCK RACE

Victor Left Queenstown 37
Minutes Behind Rival, Gets Here 49 Minutes Ahead.

WIRELESS BET REFUSED.

Ships Often in Sight of Each
Other, Always in Telegraphic Communication.

The most exciting ocean race of recent years ended to-day when the White Star liner Teutonic rushed past Sandy Hook Lightship forty-nine minutes ahead of the big Cunarder Caronia. All the way from Queenstown, which was left last Thursday, the ocean greyhounds were practically neck and neck. Part of the time they were in sight of each other, and nearly all the time wireless communication was kept up between them.

The passengers and crews of both vessels were kept up to a high pitch of excitement throughout the voyage. Half a dozen men on the Teutonic raised a pool of $5,000 and tried to bet it against an equal sum to be raised on the Caronia, but the Caronia passengers, as Purser McCubbin remarked by wireless, lacked sporting blood. Incidentally, they saved $5,000.

The Teutonic really beat the Caronia from Queenstown to Sandy Hook by 1 hour and 36 minutes. She left the Irish port 37 minutes behind her rival and arrived here 49 minutes ahead of her. A remarkable feature of the race was the fact that there was a difference of only one mile in the total distance logged by the two vessels. The Caronia traveled 2,888 miles and the Teutonic 2,887 miles.

The Daily Comparisons.

Here are the daily comparisons, figured from noon to noon, of each vessel.

Date	Teutonic	Caronia
April 2 to April 3	406	391
April 3 to April 4	406	391
April 4 to April 5	406	391
April 5 to April 6	406	391
April 6 to April 7	406	391
April 7 to April 8	406	391
April 8 to April 9	406	391
April 9 to April 10	406	391

Fairly Ate Up Distance.

It will be noted that the two big ships fairly ate up distance on the home stretch. The 475 miles which the Caronia covered between noon on Tuesday and noon on Wednesday beat her best record for twenty-four hours by nine miles more in the same period. The Caronia is a comparatively new vessel, while the Teutonic is a veteran in the transatlantic trade. Both vessels have about the same capacity for speed, and when they happened to point their noses westward from Ireland on the same day everybody aboard knew there would be a race.

Liners Almost Abeam.

Almost abeam, about a mile apart, the vessels kept company Thursday afternoon, Thursday night and all day Friday. The Caronia had the southerly position. There was a stiff westerly breeze, the weather was chilly and the decks were washed with spray, but many of the passengers on both vessels refused to go below for their meals.

For a time on Friday night the lights of each vessel were visible from the other. Then the Caronia dropped behind and disappeared from the view of those aboard the Teutonic.

Capt. Dow, the foxy commander of the Cunarder, dropped astern of the Teutonic and headed to the north to make a shorter course than is usually followed by vessels at this time of the year.

But, Capt. Thompson, of the Teutonic, is more or less of a fox himself, and it was noticed by his officers that he, too, was taking somewhat to the northward. Saturday, Sunday and Monday were days of suspense on both vessels. There were frequent wireless communications, but neither captain would acquaint the other of his position.

Caronia Came in Sight.

At 3:30 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon the lookout on the Teutonic picked up a lone smudge against the northwestern horizon. In half an hour the Caronia was in sight. As dusk fell the ships were neck and neck and belching smoke like volcanoes. All the passengers, men and women, lined the rails and shouted. Down in the firerooms and engine rooms stokers and engineers worked like beavers to get every ounce of power for the boilers and engines.

Californian Raised Pool.

Alfred C. Stock, a California ranchman, talked to some of his fellow passengers on the Teutonic and raised a $5,000 pool. This he intrusted to Purser McCubbin, with instructions to communicate with the Caronia and make a bet.

Shepherd sent a wireless to Purser McCubbin offering to bet $5,000 that the Teutonic would beat the Caronia to Sandy Hook. After a delay of two hours McCubbin sent back this reply: "There is no sporting blood on this ship."

Then Shepherd sent half a dozen taunting messages, urged on by the excited passengers, but the Caronia people were not inclined to gamble. A fog rolled out of the west and the lights of the vessels were blotted out.

Neither vessel sighted the other again until they entered the Lower Bay to-day. Capt. Thompson, however, secured a big lead by a piece of good luck yesterday evening.

Wireless Direction in Fog.

Approaching Nantucket Light in a thick fog, he happened to get into submarine wireless communication with the signal bell. This gave him his exact position, and he headed his vessel down the New England coast, straight for Sandy Hook Light.

In the mean time Capt. Dow had been unable to pick up the signal, and this confused him. Late in the evening he sent a wireless to Capt. Thompson inquiring if the latter had picked up Nantucket.

"You bet I have," wired the skipper of the Teutonic.

The lead it gave him was held all the way in, and the Caronia was not in sight when the Teutonic passed the lightship bound into this harbor.

Although the Caronia lost the race, her passengers landed in New York before those of the Teutonic. The White Star liner got tangled up with the stern of the Teutonic, and this delayed her an hour. The Caronia, on the other hand, docked as easily as a ferryboat, and her passengers were scattering over the city when the Teutonic voyagers were filing down the gangway and giving three cheers for the ship and the captain and the crew.

DR. GRAY-BLINN IS FOUND GUILTY

Jumped Bail, Fled to Canada.
Returned and Was Caught and Convicted.

Memories of a noted case of four years ago were revived this afternoon in the Court of General Sessions when a jury convicted Dr. Francis Gray-Blinn, of No. 165 West Forty-seventh street, on the charge of attempting to commit an illegal operation. Judge Malone committed him to the Tombs until next Thursday when he will be sentenced.

"Gray-Blinn was indicted as far back as November, 1903, of the crime of which he is now found guilty. He enjoyed a wide reputation in the Tenderloin section as an illegal practitioner. The County Medical Society and the District Attorney's office combined forces to trap him. A young woman who pretended that she needed his services arranged to undergo an operation. She was in his office when detectives broke in.

Gray-Blinn jumped his bail and fled to Canada, where he stayed until a few weeks ago. Then thinking the charge had been forgotten, he ventured back. He was at once arrested.

On Feb. 25 a jury which had tried him disagreed. Mr. Jerome at once moved to have him tried again. Assistant District Attorney Train prosecuted Gray-Blinn, with aid from the Medical Society.

Charles L. Barber, who defended the physician, put up a hard fight for his client, but the second jury returned a verdict after being out only a short time.

SIXTH MAN KILLED AT SAME SPOT SINCE JAN. 1.

BAYONNE, N. J., April 9.—The sixth fatality this year at the same spot occurred to-day when Charles Hudson, twenty-six years old, a boiler maker, of No. 318 Broadway, Bayonne, was run down and killed by a drill engine on the New Jersey Central Railroad tracks at Fifteenth street. Twice daily about 120 men employed in the oil works at Consable Hook take a short cut across the railroad tracks in going to and returning from their places of employment.

Hudson worked for the Tidewater Oil Company, and was on his way to the plant when killed. Five other men have met a similar fate at the same place since Jan. 1. Hudson stepped out of the way of an approaching train and got directly in the path of a drill engine. Hudson was married only six weeks ago.

SEVENTH HANGING IN PHILA. IN EIGHT WEEKS.

PHILADELPHIA, April 9.—Warrick Brooks, a negro, was hanged here to-day for the murder of William T. Jones, also a negro, whom he shot during a quarrel. Brooks is the seventh murderer to be hanged here within the last eight weeks.

Misses' and Children's Footwear

Some exceptionally interesting models in our "Right Shape" line (shoes specially designed for growing feet) include

ANKLE TIES, with welts or turned soles, GIBSON TIES, PUMPS and OXFORD TIES; SLIPPERS, for dress and house wear; PATENT LEATHER SHOES, with white tops, and TAN RUSSIA CALFSKIN SHOES.

FOR SPECIAL SELLING—Oxford Ties, of white leather and glazed kidskin; made over "Right Shape" lasts; best grade of workmanship throughout. Shoes of equal merit command $2.75 to $3.50 in other stores; special here—sizes 8 to 10½, pair, $1.69; sizes 11 to 12, pair, $1.98.

Women's Raincoats

APRIL showers may bring forth flowers—but incidentally they bring disaster to the unraincoated woman—as many have discovered who have tried to defy the recent caprices of the weather. The up-to-date raincoat is, moreover, such an attractive garment that between showers one may feel as well dressed as well protected.

Our large range of models includes:

Cravettes—in tan, Oxford, olive, navy and black; double-breasted, full and loose or semi-fitted; also models of the new butterfly shape. $9.04 to $24.74

Rubberized Taffeta and Satin—in plain colors and fancy stripe and plaid combinations; full, loose models, butterfly shape and military collar effects. $14.74 to $25.74

Rubberized Silk Imported Models—Eight different models, in gray and black-and-white, cut on unusual lines, with distinctly Parisian touches in little capes, collar trimmings, buttons, etc. $10.74 to $24.74

Oriental Evening Capes

HEAVY embroideries—Eastern effects—both are this year considered the acme of desirability, and both are represented in this effective cape, just received from Turkey. It is a full, circular model, in fine pearl white broadcloth, lined with soft gray chiffon and tastefully and exquisitely decorated with heavy hand-embroideries in untarnishable gold or silver thread. Characteristic Eastern designs and intricate plated figures are introduced, some of which are studded with small turquoise. High neck, with turnover collar stiff with embroidery. The prices range, according to the amount of decoration, from $67.75 to $124.00.

Silk and Dress Goods Remnants: Underprice Basement Clearance.

BIG accumulation of remnants of all sorts of fabrics—Silks, Dress Goods, White Goods, Wash Goods, &c.—comes to the underprice basement section for a Friday and Saturday clearance that should be as spirited as any remnant sale we have ever held in this section.

Of some lines no price details can be given. Particularly is this true of the short lengths of such fabrics as White Madras, Dotted and Figured Swisses, Fancy Batiste, Plain White Nainsook, Cambric, Long Cloth, Persian Lawns, French and Victoria Lawns, India Linons, Batistes, Swiss Mulls, Silk Mulls, Cotton Voiles and various other wash materials; also Fancy Suitings, Serges, Panamas, Albatross and Fancy Chevrons. Prices are fractional in every instance, assuring some of the richest picking you have ever known in a Remnant Sale.

JUDGE BY THE SILK REMNANTS.

Half and less than half regular prices for short lengths of plain and fancy silks of every description, so you may own them for about the price you must ordinarily pay for cottons. There are various lengths—for entire dresses, waists and trimmings.
